

$2,300 in a Day: How to Support Quality Work « Far Beyond The Stars

The secret is giving the work that helps people accomplish their goals.

Written by Everett Bogue | Follow me on Twitter.

This is the second part in the series leading up to the re-release of Minimalist Business on June 15th at 10am PST. The first part was on paying your fans to support you. Don't miss out on release day, sign up for free updates via email or RSS.

The most important strategy that a minimalist businessperson can employ is simply helping people achieve their goals.

We all subsist on valuable information, and yet it's so difficult to find in this world. There's so much fluff, and McDonald'schicken-nugget-type info that's meant to be consumed but not used to better yourself.

When you make the conscious decision to become a filter for other people's reality, in order to cut out all of the crap that doesn't matter, you can support yourself by supporting work that matters.

Here's the not so shocking truth about how I made an additional $2,300 in one day for my minimalist business last month: I simply dropped an affiliate link to Chris Guillebeau's Empire Builder Kit in the bottom of my blog post on the day that it relaunched.

Here's the exact text I used:

"If you're interested. My friend Chris Guillebeau is re-launching his Empire Builder Kit for a second time today (May 18th 2010 from 10am EST until May 19th at 10am EST) for 24 hours only.

The premise is simple: case studies including actual monetary figures by people running very small businesses who make tons of cash a year. In addition to that, you receive one email a day (that's 365 tips!) that will help you build a business destined for world domination in at least one year."

As you can see, it was nothing much. The quality of Chris's work speaks for itself.

From what I've heard from colleagues, a number of other bloggers with relatively small followings (in the 1000-3000 subscriber range) were able to pull commissions in the quad-digits as well.

Why Empire Builder?

The case seems obvious, to me. The guide is jam-packed with information on how to create what Chris calls an Empire — essentially a very small business based around the work that you're passionate about.

Add on top of this an entire year worth of content that's pumped to your inbox daily, and you can see that the investment goes way above and beyond the actual price you're paying for it.

I don't really need to say anymore about Chris's work, you get the idea how valuable this is.

Anyone who purchased Empire Builder should also be affiliating for it (you can join Chris's affiliate program here.) why not put the word out there and pay back your purchase investment with two sales? This is the magic of digital distribution.

Note: The Empire Builder Kit isn't available right now, but will be relaunched again next week [UPDATE: Empire Builder is now available for the foreseeable future.]

Why supporting quality work can support you.

The reason I was able to pull such a large figure on one product in one day is simple:

1. Build trust. The reason that I'm able to pull big numbers like this is because I've build trust with my supporters. They know I'm not going to throw them expensive garbage, and if I did that would burn away my support. Share only the work that creates value for your readers, and they will support you.

2. Show the benefits. Don't tell, show your readers how the investment paid off for you. What did you learn? What surprised you? What completely blew your mind? Don't sell crap that doesn't blow your mind.

3. Make it clear that this isn't for everyone. Not everyone is going to support you with money. Not everyone is supporting you will have the same interests or needs as everyone else. Some people need one product that helps them, others will need another. Don't force things down people's throats, simply suggest they check it out and purchase it if they think it will help them.

The story of Minimalist Business launch day.

On Tuesday, June 15th at 10am PST, I'll be relaunching Minimalist Business for the second time, and after that it will be available for anyone to purchase for the indefinite future.

I'm not making a big deal promoting this launch, because I think the quality of the work speaks for itself.

You won't see me frantically tweeting messages urging people to buy it. I won't be sending promo copies to big name bloggers begging for them to put up a link. I don't work that way, because I don't think it's necessary.

I'm just going to put a blog post up with information on how to purchase it, if you want it. The rest will happen naturally, because the value of the work speaks for itself.

Here's what's going to go down on Tuesday June 15th at 10am PST:

1. Minimalist Business will be available for 24 hours at the original discounted price ($27-$37).

Many people missed out on the initial launch. I received a barrage of emails from people who missed the deadline. I don't want these people to be left out from the discounted price, so I've decided to keep the price low for 24 hours for the people who have been anxiously waiting to purchase the work.

Once the 24 hour period is over the prices will go up to $37-$47. Follow me on Twitter for up-to-date info on the launch.

2. Minimalist Business will be open for all affiliates as of now.

Anyone can join the affiliate program. Many of you already have joined, if you have been supporting yourself with The Art of Being Minimalist.

Click here to join my affiliate program, all you need is a free account through e-junkie, a paypal address to receive money, and a media outlet such as a blog or a newsletter on which to publish a link.

Affiliate links count towards sales of The Art of Being Minimalist and Minimalist Business. You'll receive 50% commission on every sale.

Copy the URLs of the images to the right if you need art to represent the work (such as in your blog sidebar.)

I definitely suggest actually purchasing the guide, so you can authentically tell people what it's about. It's not an absolute must, but actually reading the work will help you tell your fans how to support you better.

Consider writing a review about how the guide has helped you, invite me to do an interview on your blog (it may take a few days for me to get back on an interview request, but this can be a powerful way to communicate value,) or simply drop a link saying that your readers should check it out — you'd be surprised how much power one simple line with a link can have.

—

Thank you so much for your help, and for reading this. If you have any questions about the launch, feel free to leave a comment and I'll get back to you as soon as possible.

Definitely drop me an email (evbogue at gmail dot com) if you need anything (forgive if it takes up to a day to respond, I'll inevitably be receiving a lot emails over the next week.)

Sign up for free updates via email, RSS, or follow me on Twitter to be sure that you don't miss the discounted price on launch day.

Excerpted from $2,300 in a Day: How to Support Quality Work « Far Beyond The Stars | Augmented Humanity, Second Selves, and Cybernetic Yoga

<http://www.farbeyondthestars.com/2300-in-a-day-how-to-support-quality-work/>

READABILITY — An Arc90 Laboratory Experiment <http://lab.arc90.com/experiments/readability>